

TROUT STREAMS OF CANADA ARE CALLING AMERICAN ANGLERS

A LITTLE BEAUTY FROM A LAURENTIAN MOUNTAIN STREAM

The song of the reel will soon be sounding beside the trout streams. Ardent fishermen are overhauling their tackle boxes in anticipation of annual expeditions to favorite fishing waters. Each succeeding year sees greater numbers of American sportsmen heading for the woods and streams of Canada, for one who has discovered a likely stream in an out-of-the-way corner of Quebec or Ontario, tells his pal about it with the result that his pal accompanies him the next season. In addition to the great supply of game fish in Canadian waters, is the easy accessibility of many of these streams to the American border. A night's ride from New York, Boston, Pittsburgh and many other cities finds one in Montreal or Toronto. Within two hours' travel from Montreal the trout streams begin. One may drop off and whip the falls of the Riviere du Nord that foams and dashes along, side the railway, or detrain at one of the many stations and hit the trail for the wilderness back from the line. Should he continue on to Mont Laurier at the end of the branch, a whole wilderness of trout streams is his to fish and explore. The maze of waterways in and about Nominique is dotted with fishing clubs, but the area is so vast that one is never bothered by neighboring fishermen. North from Toronto is the celebrated French River district and a network of other streams and lakes, among which is Trout Lake rich in small mouth bass and huge lake trout in their seasons. A fisherman's lodge here provides comfortable accommodations and good food, also boats and guides. This stretch of country east of Georgian Bay is a veritable fishermen's paradise which absorbs an army of sportsmen and their families every summer. Here, too, are to be found fishing clubs where the lone fisherman meets his fellows and swaps fishing stories over the evening camp fire.

SAMARA POLICE SUCCEED CHEKA AND KEEP BUSY

Arresting Political Plotters, But the Secret Trials Are a Thing of the Past.

(By Associated Press) SAMARA, Russia, April 21.—(By Mail)—The state political police, successor to the "Cheka," is extremely active in Samara province in arresting supposed political plotters against the soviet regime, but it is evident here that the old system of secret trials and condemnations has passed.

The turn to open trials for all offenders showed itself here in a recent court scene where 49 persons, men, women and boys, were tried together as bandits. Accused of murders, highway robberies and burglaries, many having been caught in the act, these criminals a few months ago would have been executed without further hearing by the Cheka.

Interest in their trial was so great that the biggest theater in Samara was used as a court room. The prisoners, guarded by red army soldiers, were penned in the orchestra pit. Each, as his case was called, stood up on what had been the raised place for the orchestra leader and was questioned by the judges.

The three judges, counsel for the defense and prosecution, and the court clerks sat on the stage behind long tables covered with red cloth. All of the decorum of the old Russian court system was observed. The spectators occupying the auditorium of the theater, had to rise and remove their hats when the judges entered.

Points of law based upon the new soviet code, were argued just as in an American court, and the time honored custom of citing precedents obtained. As there was no jury (the three judges acting in place of one) the attorneys addressed most of the remarks to the audience.

The prisoners included about a dozen women and four boys under 18. They were a rough looking lot. The trial continued for more than a week.

Nine of the ringleaders, including one boy of 16, who admitted he had murdered two persons, were sentenced to be shot immediately. The others, including the women, were sentenced to serve prison terms of from two to five years, in one of the old czar prisons in Siberia.

This was one of the first occasions in the provinces when the soviet courts adopted this method, so much in vogue during the old regime.

HORNSILVER IS LIVELY PLACE SAY OPERATORS

Many Finds of Promise Being Recorded With Frequency in the Rich District.

News of new mineral finds at Hornsilver is received weekly from that district, and the enthusiasm among those interested in the gold-silver fields is bubbling over these days. T. C. Link, secretary-treasurer, and Henry Hanson, president, of the Silver Dyke Mining company, were arrivals in Tonopah this morning from that camp, and brought along fine looking specimens of ore that were taken from the Broken Pick claim. The quartz is unusually lively and appears in a lime formation, and values of close to $60 a ton are expected, although no assay returns have been received.

The Roof property is reported as making a splendid showing, and five tons of better than $100 ore are now on the dump. The ore will be shipped during the next few days to determine the actual contents in quantity.

"Numerous properties are receiving attention," remarked Mr. Link, "and there can no longer be any question concerning the future of the camp, although it is going to take a little money to develop these splendid showings. There is a spirit of optimism among those residing at Hornsilver that spells success, and things promise to be humming within a short time."

BOY SWIMMER NOW SHATTERS RECORDS

(By Associated Press) SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.—John Weismuller, the Chicago youth who in six months has broken every swimming record from 50 to 500 yards, left here May 11 for Honolulu to meet the island's best swimmers May 17 and June 24. He will return to San Francisco early in July and may be seen in competition at that time.

Weismuller chiefly ascribes his ability to get through the water faster than any other human being to the fact that he is able to breathe while swimming on either side. He is about 6 feet 2 inches tall, slim, and weighs 172 pounds. His only training is the swimming he does in practice, and his diet includes ice cream, pie and hot dogs. He is just beginning to shave. He was born in Austria.
